Money Management Has Detrimental Effect

The Searchlight club held its January meeting at the home of Mrs. A. A. Lawson at 13 Ravine street ing yesterday afternoon with Professor Masson of the Harvard Business School as the guest speaker.

Prof. Masson said that the management of money by the government was in his opinion one of the contributing causes of the present difficult situation. He showed that the increasing or decreasing of the amount of currency produced no wealth, that wealth is created solely by increase of goods and by the exchange of the same.

Inflation is the effect on price levels which comes from money manipulation alone. Every inflation taxes those people whose wages and salaries do not keep up with rising prices. Devaluation, on the other hand, stimulates exports and decreases imports.

The speaker thought that if we had had the confidence and political support to guarantee all bank deposits in 1931 and 1932 the coun-

TEST COMPLETED ON 1935 HUDSONS AND TERRAPLANES

Checking In 1935 Test Chassis Camouflaged with a 1934 Body

Final road and laboratory tests have now been completed on the 1935 Terraplane and Hudson cars and cars will soon be coming off the assembly line at the Hudson plant. The tests on these cars have been unusually exhaustive, totalling over a half million miles of road driving alone. Some of the cars out on the road have been driven well over 100,000 miles and recently one of the 1935 engines was put through the most searching dynanometer tests ever given an automobile engine. This test is probably only paralleled by those given aviation

During this dynamometer test the engine ran under full load for nine days straight; 208 hours steadily, at car speeds from 76 to 84 miles an hour. In this test the crankshaft made fifty travelled nearly eight thousand miles. The spark plugs fired twenty-five million times. A year's operation at top speed is approximated in this test as it represents a total of 17,000 miles of car travel. From the data compiled in this laboratory test, as well as on the road, a number of well as on the road, a number of refinements have been made in the care to even further increase their

One of the features of the new cars will be the welded all-steel roof which has been the dream of body manufacturers ever since the steel body was first created. The big problem has been the elimination of the drumming sound caused by the diaphragm action of the roof. Strange to say, the lessons learned in the control of engineers has finally led to the accomplishment of damping out these vibra-tions and eliminating all drumming

The other development is an entirely new method of automobile control which entirely clears the front compartment of shifter lever and emergency brake lever. The details of this are kept a secret by the Hudson Motor Car Cou but it will probably be one of the most talked about features for 1935.

LOCALS HOLD MELROSE SEXTET TO SCORELESS TIE IN RUGGED BATTLE

Headwork by Bill Collins Keeps Arlington Goal Unsullied. Gardella Harries Melrose Stars. Both teams

The Arlington High Hockey team held the powerful Melrose sextet to A. H. S. Basketeers a scoreless tie in a fast and exciting game in a Greater Boston Interscholastic Hockey League game at the Boston Garden last Saturday afternoon. The game was the most exciting game of the season, both teams being about equal in strength.

The first period had progressed but one minute when Bob Mee was sent to the penalty box for slashing. This gave Melrose an advantage, and they tried desperately to make good use of it. Bud Foster and Bill De Coste came flying into the Arlington territory only to be frustrated by the stalwart defensemen, Bill Collins and John Byrnes. "Saks" Sakoian made many brilliant saves during those hectic moments. When Mee came back into the game, Arlington started to force the fight. Suddenly out of the melee around the Melrose goal Bud Foster came rushing down the ice. With the defencemen awaiting him. Foster tried to split the defense, but was neatly boxed and went sprawling on the ice. Gus Gardella picked up the loose puck and sent a shot at the goalie but he easily deflected the course of the rubber disc. At this point two Melrose players were sent into the penalty box. Arlington tried to take advantage of this opportunity, but Melrose put up an airtight defense which the Spy Ponders were unable to penetrate. As the period ended, Gardella was sent to the penalty box.

The second period opened with Gardella still in the penance box. Arlington stalled around until he came out, but he had no sooner get into play when Captain Bud Norberg took his place. When Norberg's penalty was half up, Gardella was sent to the gaol. With two Arlington men hor de combat, Melrose tried to break the deadlock. The local team showe that it could play just as well de fensively as offensively, and Melros was doomed to be thwarted. Sakoia was at his best, and made many di ficult saves with a nonchalance tha drew the admiration of the throns When Norberg and Gardella returne to the fray. Arlington carried the fight to the Melrose goal. Joe Gar della was the outstanding player of the ice, harrying the Melrose pucl carriers behind their own goa Thayer, Melrose goalie, made man sensational stops in this period which ended with both teams still playing as hard as they did whe they started the game.

Both teams came out in the thir period resolved to break the tie. Th play progressed from one end of th ice to the other. First Bud Foste would sally down the ice only to b stopped by the Arlington defense Joe Gardella would then try his luci but the results would be the sam After some minutes pot intensi scrimmage, Roger Keefe sent a har shot at Goding, the Melrose goali which hit him squarely in the fac and knocked him unconscious, G ding was carried off the ice, an Thayer took his place. When pla was resumed, it was seen that bot teams were nearly exhausted. Wit but a few minutes of play remaining the entire Arlington team, except th goalie, went up the ice in an attemp at scoring. Suddenly Bud Foste emerged from the fray and skate down the ice with no one between him and the goal. Just as he we about to shoot at the defenceless St koian, Bill Collins, who had chase Foster down the ice, stuck out hi hockey stick and tripped him; thus saving Arlington from being scored upon. A bit of fast thinking by a clever man. The rest of the period had set. The summary:

Dr. Franklin P. Hawkes, principal of Junior High West, presented an interesting and powerful appeal to the Middlesex Sportsman's Clabhouse for the Boy Scout organization. In the absence of Chief Daniel B. Tierney, president, treasurer William G. Hadley presided. Supt. of Schools the subject for the evening services: | Clarence H. Dempsey introduced the speaker.

Dr. Hawkes stated that war bids for our boys; pleasure presents attractive bids, crime bids for them and we must outbid the others. He outlined the beginning of the movement and presented clearly the many activities of scouting.

Arlington ranks high among the towns and cities of the Sachem Council. Three hundred and sixty-eight Arlington boys receive the benefits of Scouting and this number far exceeds Belmont with two hundred and two, Waltham, one hundred and eighty-four, or Watertown, Lexington, Concord, Bedford or Lincoln. Also Arlington is represented by twelve local institutions which are conducting troops. Dr. Hawkes made his audience keenly feel the necessity of maintaining Scouting and extending it further through the organization of new troops.

IT IS TOO CLOSE

The planning boards of Arlington, Belmont, Lexington, Lincoln and Concord, the five towns through which the new Concord Turnpike passes, have done heroic work in keeping the broad highway free from undesirable development. By dint of watchful diligence their purpose has been realizedup to date.

The road is still very young, however, and the memory of the attempt to establish a road stand at the junction of Lake street and the highway by a change in the zoning laws of Arlington is so vivid that no one should believe that the good work already done could be made an unalterable reality without still further action.

The far-seeing planning boards have not only perceived the need of a law which would insure uniformly desirable development along the road, but what is just as important, they have taken steps to further that end. A bill to be known as "An act regulating and festricting the erection, alteration and use of building, structures, land and advertising signs and devices along the Concord Turnpike", has been filed with the Leislature.

The bill provided that no business or industry shall be located within 100 feet from the exterior line of the highway, and then only when the town zoning by-law permits of industrial or business use. As a matter of fact most of the territory through which the new road passes is already zoned for residences.

There are several sections applying to bill-boards and other advertising devices, fixing their size and limiting their set back with a view to the promotion of public safety.

We would voice one doubt concerning the bill. Does it go far enough? Will the law be sufficiently rigid? We do not, of course, pretend to know as much about the matter as the members of the five planning boards, but why, may we ask, should outdoor advertising be allowed at all? Even if a bill-board is one hundred feet or more from the road, it is too close.

Japanese Letter

Describes Gov't

The following letter, written in Esperanto by a graduate of the Law Department of the Imperial recently and translated by a member of the Experanto Club at Ar-Magton High School.

> Yokahama, Japan December 5, 1934

Dear triend, With pleasure I read your letter which contained a number of questions for me to answer, but I shall only have time for a few of these in this letter. In my next letter I shall try to answer the others.

First, about the government of Japan: If our system of government were to be summed up in a word, it would be called a "constitutional monarchy". That is, the supreme ruler, called The Mikado, has absolute power to govern, provided that he keep within the limits of the constitution, which has functioned since 1889. This constitution I am translating into Ecperanto with the help of two of my friends: when it is in shape, I shall send it to you.

(a) The Legislative Department. According to the constitution. The Wikado does not make laws at will. He only gives his approval on those laws proposed by the Imperial Diet. The decisions on laws by the Diet ere made in either of these two WEYE:

Now, on to another question, this time concerning the physical makeup of the country. Japan is, as you know, made up of many islands, of which the largest are: Honshu, Hokkaido, Karafuto, Shikoku, Kiushiu, Taiwan, and Chosen. Japan, is, unlike your United States, very centralized, the ruling resting entirely with the central government, which gives no powers at all to

Here and There

The weather has been a little mite damp lately. But still and all it might have been worse. All this wet might have been a dry powdery snow, and then there would have been some real complaints except from the youngsters.

+ + + The new Concord Turnpike has not yet been finished, but already there is considerable travel along the section in Arlington, and does that traffic move?

We were initiated on one of the first nights of the fog which hung over us for two or three days. The writer was jogging along Lake street in a cautious manner and started to cross the highway. At the time he had no idea that the new road was in use, but he found out. The nose of his machine was well out over the concrete when, Z-z-z-ing, something flashed across his bows. It all happened so quickly that there wasn't even time to begin to put on the brakes, but it was some few minutes before the writer's whitened hair again lay flat to the head.

But another pair was not quite as lucky at the junction of Lake and the highway. Neither was injured, but their cars were absolutely demolished. Which fact aroused the Selectmen to request the immediate installation of traffic lights at that point. We don't suppose that anyone really likes traffic lights, but sometimes we are forced to admit that they are needed, and this is one of the times.

The junction of Park avenue and the new road is just as bad and the Selectmen would have said something about that too were it not for the fact that the crossing lies in Belmont-just over the line.

Which brings up the matter of jurisdiction. The new road starts in Arlington, oozes over the line into Belmont, joggs back into Arlington. bends over into Belmont again, and finally comes back into Arlington before it hits the Lexington line. Right now the State Constabulary is taking the states. There is but one chief care of the situation. Already one of city, Tokio, where the Mikado the State cops has made an arrest Each island does not have for speeding, but it is felt that either Arlington or Belmont should have jurisdiction, not both. The Citizens' Committee will oppose Mr. Collins in his efforts at reelection, but as yet it has not been decided who will run on that side of the fence. Harold Estabrook, the present chairman of the Finance Committee, seems to be the logical candidate, but to date Mr. Estabrook has shown but little if any enthusiasm. We venture a guess, however, that he will yet be persuaded.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCHENTIST

"Sacrament" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 13.

The Golden Text is: "A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also fove one another. By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another" (John 18:34, 35).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon to the following from the Bible: "My Mttle children, let us not love in word. neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth. . . . And this is his commandment. That we should believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us commandment" (I John 3:18. 23):

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the 'Our heavenly Father, divine Love, demands that all men should follow the example of our Master and his apostles and not merely wor-

Arlington Stamp Club

The Arlington Stamp Club of Arlington, started the year 1935 with their meeting on last Monday evening, January 7th.

Although it was not the best kind of an evening to be out, due to the heavy fog, the meeting was attended by 50 members and guests, who enjoyed a fine social time.

Nine additional persons joined the large list of members, which this progressive club now has on file.

The auction is always a favorite, which the stamp bourse, a new fea ture last October proved to be well patronized. Thousands of stamps were on sale in these books. This feature has proved itself to be a per

The Laymen's League of the First Postage Stamps and the Panama Canal

We all know of the Panama Canal, but few realize the important part played by a small postage stamp, in securing the canal at

As early as 1826, the interest of this country in a canal connecting the two oceans, became noticeable and a few years later in 1850, Great Britain also commenced to see the advantages in having a short cut across the isthmus from one ocean to the other. At this time, both of these countries preferred a route through Nicaragua, while France, who was also desirous of such a passage, desired the route at Panama.

In Washington, there had been for years a great difference of opinion as to the most suitable of the two locations. There were of course, many supporters for both plans, those on the one side declaring that there were active volcanos in Nicaragua, near where the canal was proposed to pass; while the supporters for this route declared that active volcanos did not exist in

Arlington Advocate Stamp Exchange Club

Howdy, stamp collectors! During the past few weeks you probably have been reading and hearing of this proposed Stamp Exchange Club for readers of the Arlington Advocate. I know that there are hundreds of you with duplicate stamps which you would be only too glad to exchange for stamps which are desired. This is the main reason why you should belong to this club which is now being formed. I say now being formed, because the first application blank appeared in the issue of January 4th so you'can see that you have plenty of time to join with the first Remember that it costs nothing
